Friday Booking information

Your tickets
Whether you would like to fill three days with talks, tours and tastings or attend just one lecture, our pricing structure offers you complete flexibility.

• All lectures, panel discussions and tours are priced at £10 each.
• Activities and catered events are priced individually.
• Under 16s are welcome to attend sessions free of charge. They are not permitted to attend sessions where alcohol is served.

How to book

• Book online at www.alumniweekend.ox.ac.uk. Online booking is the easiest and quickest way to secure your preferred sessions.
• Or return the paper booking form by 7 September to the following address: Alumni Weekend, Alumni Office, University of Oxford, University Offices, Wellington Square, Oxford, OX1 2JD, UK
• We regret that we are unable to take bookings over the phone.

Please note that in 2019 we will only send out hard copy brochures and paper booking forms on request. If you wish to receive one please tick the relevant box on the paper or online booking form.

Cancellation and enquiries
If you have booked online and are no longer able to attend the Alumni Weekend or a particular session, you can amend your booking by logging back into our registration page at www.alumniweekend.ox.ac.uk. Alternatively please call +44(0)1865 288061 or email alumniweekend@alumni.ox.ac.uk. Refunds are available when requested before 9 September 2018.

Family-friendly activities
This year we will be running a host of family-friendly activities. These will be indicated in the brochure with the symbol.

To make life easier, we will also be providing childcare facilities for children aged 8 months to 11 years old. Care facilities will be open from:
9am–5.30pm Saturday

The crèche will be staffed by professional and DBS-checked carers. Please book your children in via the online booking system.

Filming and photography
Filming and photography will be taking place throughout the weekend. This will then be used in promotional materials for the University, both in print and online.

Please notify a member of staff if you do not wish to be photographed.

Important information

Brochure updates
Over the coming months we will be adding even more sessions to our extensive programme, so this brochure only contains a portion of what is yet to come.

The full programme will be available when booking opens online on 27 June 2018.

If you are booking online, you will be able to make amendments to your Weekend timetable via the dedicated booking website www.alumniweekend.ox.ac.uk, until 9 September 2018.

If you are booking via a paper booking form, we will be happy to amend your programme for you directly from our office. You can do this either by phone +44(0)1865 288061 or email alumniweekend@alumni.ox.ac.uk.
About the Weekend
The central venue for the Weekend will be the Mathematical Institute, where you’ll find the Information Point, on-the-day ticket sales, café, childcare facilities and Blackwell’s bookstore. Note that the café will not be open on Sunday.
The icons below are shown for venues where the following apply:

- Hearing loop
- Wheelchair access
- More than 15 minutes by foot from the Mathematical Institute

Please aim to arrive at your sessions 5–10 minutes in advance of the given start time. Latecomers will be permitted entry to sessions at staff discretion.

On-the-day-tickets
Although we would strongly encourage you to book your tickets in advance, sessions that still have spaces will also be available on the day. Alumni can purchase these on a first-come-first-served basis by coming to the Information Point in the foyer of the Mathematical Institute. A list of available sessions will be posted in the foyer from Friday afternoon and updated throughout the Weekend.

The Information Point will be open at the following times:
2–5.30pm Friday
9am–5.30pm Saturday
9am–3pm Sunday

2–3.30pm

TOUR The parish of St Thomas the Martyr
Liz Woolley, tour guide and local historian

Starts at the Outside Cafe 1071, Oxford Castle Yard, off New Road, OX1 1AY. Tour will finish at Frideswide Square, OX1 1HR

St Thomas’ parish was first settled in Saxon times and later became the heart of the Oxford brewing industry, gaining a reputation as one of the liveliest parishes of the city. It is now being redeveloped as part of the West End Development. This guided walk will give you a unique insight into this fascinating parish, the people who made it so rich both culturally and socially, and the historic buildings which still survive.

£10

Tour repeated 12pm on Saturday.

2.30–3.30pm

Children and social policy in Europe
Professor Mary Daly, Professor of Sociology and Social Policy

Barnett House, 32 Wellington Square, OX1 2ER

Join us for an opportunity to reflect on the treatment of children in social policy. Juxtaposing a child-centred and a child-oriented policy paradigm, this talk seeks to take stock of recent policy developments in Europe and beyond, and assess our progress in developing child-centred policies.

£10

Refreshments following event until 4pm.

Free for Department of Sociology and Social Policy alumni. Contact the Department for discount booking details.

The promise and perils of work in the gig economy
Professor Mark Graham, Professor of Internet Geography. Professor Jeremias Prassl (Corpus Christi, 2004), Faculty of Law

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG

With millions of people around the world now doing jobs sourced via digital platforms in the gig economy, the world of work as we know it is changing. Workers in London, Lagos, and Los Angeles can all escape their local labour markets and compete for the same jobs. This discussion examines some of the opportunities of this changing world of work, but also some of its risks and costs, and what we can do to bring about a fairer world of work.

£10

Glorious shade
Jenny Rose Carey (Lady Margaret Hall, 1981), gardener, historian and author

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG

Unsure how to make the most of the shady areas in your garden? Join Jenny Rose Carey to learn how to choose the right plants for the shadiest corners of your garden, as well as design and maintenance tips to make it successful.

£10

Estate planning and tax in a post-Brexit world
Nigel Roots, Head of Private Client Service, Freeths LLP; Caroline Reynolds, Legacies Officer, University of Oxford

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG

Drop-in session to discuss inheritance tax, the so-called ‘voluntary tax’. The speakers will answer questions such as: what is the best way to make a tax-efficient gift in your will to charity and limit your inheritance tax liability? What is the UK resident nil rate band and who qualifies? Are pension funds for retirement or inheritance tax saving?

FREE
Friday 2.30–3.30pm

TOUR Bodleian Libraries
Tour guide, Bodleian Libraries

Starts and finishes at the Proscholium (entrance to the Old Library), Catte Street, OX1 3BG

Experience some of the University’s most iconic locations. This guided tour will feature the most fascinating areas inside the Bodleian Libraries: the Divinity School, Convocation House, Chancellor’s Court, the world-famous Duke Humphrey’s Library and the Radcliffe Camera.

£10

Tour repeated 2pm on Sunday.

Friday 4–5pm

TOUR ‘Blue stockings’ and ‘bonnets’ at Oxford
Felicity Tholstrup, tour guide

Meet at Brasenose College Lodge, Radcliffe Square, OX1 4AJ

Marking the centenary of the first votes for women, this walk will focus on some impressive female students amongst the first of those at Oxford University. Whilst supporting those who carried out acts of protest in the Suffrage campaign, these women quietly established a foothold in a very male domain, which led to full OU status for women by 1920.

£10

Tour repeated 1pm on Sunday.

Friday 4–5.30pm

ACTIVITY Champagne and fizz tasting
Nick Gay, head tutor, Oxford Chelt Wine School

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG

Is champagne still the best sparkling wine in the world? Come along to compare superior fizz from all over the wine-producing world. Tasting will include: Prosecco DOCG, Cava Reserva, New World traditional method fizz, a top English sparkling, a traditional champagne and a vintage champagne.

£25

Friday 4–6pm

TOUR Folly Bridge and Grandpont
Liz Woolley, tour guide and local historian

Starts at the Outside Cafe 1071, Oxford Castle Yard, off New Road, OX1 1AY. Tour will finish at Frideswide Square, OX1 1HR

Grandpont is a Victorian suburb, but the history of this area goes back to the early medieval period when it was the site of the original oxen ford which gave the city its name. Later the area was home to Oxford’s first waterworks, railway station and football ground. Join this walking tour and find out about the history of this often overlooked part of Oxford.

£10

Tour repeated 12.30pm on Sunday.

Friday 4–6pm

The mythology and spirituality of the unicorn
Professor Paul S Fiddes (St Peter’s, 1965), Professor of Systematic Theology, University of Oxford and Director of Research, Regent’s Park College, Oxford

Regent’s Park College, Pusey Street, OX1 2LB

This illustrated talk explores the iconography and mythology of the unicorn in medieval and Renaissance periods, and the current popularity of unicorns in all types of media. It surveys the place of the unicorn in secular life and spiritual practices of the Church, explaining the enduring attraction of the image.

£10
What’s new in experimental psychology?
Professor Masud Husain (New, 1981), Professor of Neurology and Cognitive Neuroscience
Meet at the Anna Watts Building entrance, Walton Street, OX2 6HG
During this extended session you will have the opportunity to learn all about the exciting new research being produced by the Department. This will include: a tour of the new Anna Watts Building (the temporary home of Experimental Psychology); a talk by Professor Masud Husain, giving an insight into his current research; and a drinks reception, with the opportunity to meet current researchers.
£10
Welcome reception
Hosted by Professor Louise Richardson, FRSE, Vice-Chancellor of the University
The Oxford Foundry, 3–5 Hythe Bridge Street, OX1 2EW
Join the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor at our Welcome drinks reception in the newly opened Oxford Foundry, the University’s first facility dedicated to supporting student-led innovation.

This lecture is sponsored by the Oxford Alumni Board.

People and places, Brexit and Britain: the importance of immigration and empire
Professor Danny Dorling, Halford Mackinder Professor of Human Geography
School of Geography and the Environment, Oxford University Centre for the Environment, South Parks Road, OX1 3QY

How important was the British Empire in shaping today’s map of ethnic identity in Britain, and forming contemporary attitudes to immigration, emigration and Brexit? In this talk Danny Dorling suggests that Brexit, like the Suez Crisis before it, is part of the slow unravelling required for the countries of the UK to eventually become normal.

£10

Free for Department of Geography alumni. Contact the Department for discount booking details.

Should women be protected from religion?
Dr Nazila Ghanea, Associate Professor in International Human Rights Law
Rewley House, 1 Wellington Square, OX1 2JD

Using a human rights law perspective, this lecture will examine whether human rights law offers protection from religion as well as freedom of religion or belief. What about practices carried out in the name of religion or justified with reference to religion? What is to be done in cases where women object, and in circumstances where they are supportive of these practices?

Oxford benefactors

Alastair Lack (Univ, 1964), tour guide

Meet at Balliol College Lodge, Broad Street, OX1 3BJ

Nearly all college and University buildings in Oxford owe their presence to great benefactors. Early benefactions from monarchs and bishops were followed over the centuries by John Radcliffe, Cecil Rhodes and a roll call of the famous and wealthy. This walk by Alastair Lack tells the story of philanthropy in Oxford.

Tour repeated 11am on Sunday.

TOUR Bodleian conservation

Meet at the Information Desk in Blackwell Hall, Weston Library, Broad Street, OX1 3BG

The Conservation and Collection Care team works to preserve, stabilise and improve access to the Bodleian Libraries’ collections. In this tour they will open the doors to their new workshop spaces in the Weston Library. This will be a special opportunity to go behind the scenes and look at ongoing projects with the Book, Paper and Preventive Conservators.

£10

Tour repeated 12.30pm on Saturday.

TOUR Multidimensional poverty: from research to effective global and national social policy

Dr Sabina Alkire (Magdalen, 1991), Director, Oxford Poverty and Human Development Initiative, Dr Natalie Quinn (Balliol, 2003), Senior Research Officer, OPHI, Dr Usha Kanagaratnam (St Anthony’s, 2008), Senior Research Officer, OPHI

Seminar Room 1, Queen Elizabeth House, 3 Mansfield Road, OX1 3TB

If we are to tackle poverty effectively, we have to have a clear understanding of what it is. Researchers in Oxford pioneered a new approach to poverty measurement, which is now starting to transform the way many countries in the global South understand and address poverty in all its forms and dimensions.

£10

Sappho to suffrage: women who dared

Professor Senia Pasetta, Co-Director of Women in the Humanities

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG

Celebrating the centenary of women’s suffrage, Professor Senia Pasetta will discuss the particular history of suffrage in Oxford, and give an exclusive insight into the background of her exhibition at the Weston Library.

Insights into Oxford

Miles Young (New, 1973), Warden of New College, Professor Anne Davies (Lincoln, 1992), Dean of the Law Faculty and Professor of Law and Public Policy, Dr Robert Easton (New, 1984), Pro-Vice-Chancellor, Development and External Affairs

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG

Representatives from a college, department and central University will discuss the challenges and successes for Oxford in recent years and how this could impact on the future of the University.

£10

Does data have a gender? The status of women in the age of algorithms

Professor Gina Neff, Senior Research Fellow, Oxford Internet Institute, and Associate Professor, Department of Sociology

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG

Everyone knows that computer programs are gender neutral. But are they? And how often does this unacknowledged prejudice incorporate serious bias into data outcomes? Professor Gina Neff will argue that the challenge is not necessarily to have more women in data science, but to change the terms on which we design data-driven decisions, and include better ways for more diverse teams to use them.

£10

11–noon

12.30–1.30pm
Networking lunch with Continuing Education
Rewley House, 1 Wellington Square, OX1 2JD
Join Dr Nazila Ghanea, Dr Cezar Ionescu and Professor Jonathan Michie, Director of the Department for Continuing Education, at Rewley House for a buffet lunch and the opportunity to discuss today’s lectures and the many engaging programmes available through Continuing Education at the University of Oxford.

£11

Harms in healthcare
Professor Carl Heneghan (New, 1994), Professor of Evidence-Based Medicine, Dr Igho Onakpoya (Kellogg, 2014), Research Fellow in Evidence Synthesis, Dr Elizabeth Spencer, Senior Research Fellow in Epidemiology
College Hub, Kellogg College, 60-62 Banbury Road, OX2 6PN
Is medicine broken? Are patients and the public subjected to unnecessary harms? Is regulatory policy a driver of unnecessary harm?
Hosted by Kellogg College, join health researchers from the Centre for Evidence-Based Medicine for a series of talks on hormone pregnancy tests, weight-loss drugs and mesh devices: drugs and devices that cause significant harm to patients and the public.

Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG
Join Professor Martin Kemp, world-renowned da Vinci expert, in discussion with award-winning author, Ross King, to hear about his fifty-year journey with the artist's work and his new book, Living with Leonardo: Fifty Years of Sanity and Insanity in the Art World and Beyond.
£10

Mathematics: the next 100 years
Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG
We rely on mathematics to understand our world, from its shapes and numbers to its climate, its security and even our very selves. But what are the mathematical challenges of the future? Our expert panel will consider.
£10

Living in a quantum world
Professor Vlatko Vedral, Professor of Quantum Information Science
Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG
Quantum mechanics is commonly said to be a theory of microscopic things. Most physicists, however, think it applies to everything, no matter what the size. Over the past few years experimentalists have seen quantum effects in a growing number of macroscopic systems, including living organisms. Professor Vedral will explore how quantum mechanics can be used to help address the challenges facing humanity in the 21st century.

Settlers: genetics, geography and the peopling of Britain

Dr Claire Hann (Christ Church, 1998), Researcher, School of Geography and the Environment, Ellena Grillo, Oxford University Museum of Natural History

Meet at the Information desk in Oxford University Museum of Natural History, Parks Road, OX1 3PW

From the arrival of the earliest modern humans over 40,000 years ago to the population of the present day, the history of the people of Britain is one of movement, migration and settlement. Tracing patterns revealed by genetics, archaeology and demography, this tour tells the dynamic story of Britain’s ever-changing population.

£10

Tour 1: 2.30–3pm, Tour 2: 3–3.30pm. Free for Department of Geography alumni. Contact the Department for discount booking details.

Oxford’s hidden carvings

Felicity Tholstrup, tour guide

Meet at the steps of the Clarendon Building, Broad Street, OX1 3AZ

The story behind some of the many carved faces, symbols and inscriptions on Oxford walls, towers and gateways will be told. Marking ancient boundaries, historic events or great achievement, they are always imaginative, sometimes chilling, often curious or amusing. They continue to be designed today to decorate the ‘dreaming spires’ of Oxford.

£10

Tour repeated 10am on Sunday.

Soft concepts vs hard facts: software models in the social sciences

Dr Cezar Ionescu, Associate Professor of Data Science, Continuing Education

Rewley House, 1 Wellington Square, OX1 2JD

Our lives are increasingly influenced by software systems that no single person can fully understand; from machine-learning frameworks ‘in the cloud’, to models of climate change or financial risks, to self-driving cars. The challenge of ensuring the correctness of these systems is what led to the foundation of the social sciences.

£10

Alumni careers and the use of social media

Dr Mike Moss FRSC FRSA, Alumni Careers Programme Manager, Careers Service

Careers Service, 56 Banbury Road, OX2 6PA

Dr Mike Moss has been the only dedicated alumni careers adviser in the UK for five years and has advised almost 4,000 Oxford alumni. Career development is constantly changing; recruiters are becoming more and more cautious and are looking for job-ready candidates. Whether your interest is practical or theoretical he can give you the latest perspective.

The NHS at 70: time for retirement?
Panel chaired by Sir Andrew Dilnot
(St John’s, 1978), Warden of Nuffield College
Mathematical Institute, Woodstock Road, OX2 6GG
In 2018, its 70th year, the NHS seems to be approaching a tipping point. Is it time to finally let go of the ideal of high-level free healthcare, or can the NHS be revived to enjoy vigorous health for another 70 years? Andrew Dilnot, author of the Dilnot Commission Report on Social Care, will lead a panel of healthcare experts in a discussion of the future of the NHS.

I am Elle Tait. I applied to the UNiD Summer School during my sixth form because I wanted to be sure that a law degree was for me. At Oxford, I was fortunate enough to be supported with a bursary during my undergraduate degree. Most of my time as a law student was spent reading and going to tutorials but there’s so much more to get involved with, which the bursary allowed me to do. My main passion was journalism and I became deputy editor of the student newspaper.

If you have made a provision for any part of the University in your will, please let us know so that we have an opportunity to thank you and invite you to events of interest.
